Singing the Mass

Question: Why am I singing so much at Mass? Currently, I am working with Kathleen at Holy Trinity and with Linda and the choir at Port Orford on gradually implementing the musical directives of the 2011 Roman Missal. These things take time. My singing is for the purpose of introducing the music of the Mass into our parish liturgies while we continue to develop a strategy for cantors and choirs.

The best explanation I can give is to offer the following selections from Archbishop Sample's 2013 Pastoral Letter on Sacred Music entitled "Rejoice in the Lord Always" (promulgated in the Diocese of Marquette):

"Because the place of sacred music is so important, I am issuing this pastoral letter on the nature, purpose and quality of sacred music. This is an important discussion to have, since so often the music selected for Mass is reduced to a matter of subjective "taste," i.e. what style of music appeals to this or that person or group, as if there were no objective principles to be followed. There are indeed objective principles worthy of study and proper implementation, as will be shown" (Introduction).

1. f. What should we sing at Mass?

1) The liturgical books (the Missal, Graduale and Lectionary) envision that, as a rule, we sing the Mass at Mass, rather than sing songs during Mass. To truly sing the Mass as described below is the ideal and should be an overall priority for parish worship.

2) The sung parts of the Mass consist of the Ordinary, the Propers, the Orations and the Dialogues:

The Ordinary consists of the Mass parts which are the same every Sunday: Kyrie, Gloria, Sanctus and Agnus Dei. At times it is also appropriate to sing the Credo. Ordinarily these pertain to the congregation, although on occasion a skilled choir is permitted to sing a more challenging setting alone. They may be sung in Latin or the vernacular, in Gregorian settings or in other forms of sacred music.

The Propers are the parts which vary according to the calendar: Entrance Chant, Responsorial Psalm, Alleluia with its verse, Offertory Chant and Communion Chant.

Entrance Chant, Offertory Chant and Communion Chant

As the name implies, these are the chants sung at the Entrance, preparation of the Gifts and Communion respectively. These are found in the Graduale Romanum, the Missal and the Graduale Simplex, and are intended to be sung in Latin or the vernacular. Using the texts and musical settings for these chants is the first and preferred option. It is worth noting that many of the texts for these chants as they are found in the Roman Missal are new, and musical settings for them, in Latin and English, are currently being composed by Church musicians.

Responsorial Psalm and the Alleluia with its verse

These are the chants between the readings. The Responsorial Psalm with its response is normally taken from the Lectionary as assigned for that day. A "seasonal" Psalm with its response selected from the Lectionary may also be sung. A selection from the Graduale Romanum or the Graduale Simplex may also be used. The Alleluia verse is normally taken from the Lectionary itself or the Graduale. During Lent, the Alleluia is replaced by the Verse before the Gospel.

The Orations and Dialogues are the texts of the Collects and other prayers, and those in which the celebrant and people address each other, for example the greeting and its response: "The Lord be with you" - "And with your spirit". Musical notations for these dialogues are provided in the Missal and should be used.

2. a. Singing the Mass

1) One parish celebration every Sunday should be a Sung Mass (Missa cantata), offered with consistency and with the greatest care and attention the community can give it. In the former traditional parlance, this may have been referred to as a High Mass. It could also be referred to as a Solemn Mass. A Sung Mass need not be elaborate - indeed, the principle of noble simplicity should guide it. Other Masses in the parish may include less singing and more recited parts, but the Sung Mass sets the pattern and the model for sacred music in the parish.

2. d. The Propers

It is acknowledged that the singing of the Propers can present difficulties in parishes unaccustomed to singing the Mass as described above. However, there are parishes where the resources exist (or can be developed) to sing the Propers. The pastors and musicians of these parishes are encouraged and challenged to work toward a restoration of the sung Propers in some form at the Sung Mass, according to the options which are described in the General Instruction of the Roman Missal.

In Christ,
Fr. Eric M. Andersen

Wow! Our closing program was such a resounding success. Thank you! Everyone who helped make it the “best ever” should be very proud. Steve and Sara White cooked the meal, which was sponsored by the parish. (Where could you feed such a crowd of people for $83.66?) Steve brought his own barbecue and cooked chicken drumsticks, and Sara made potato and macaroni salads. Steve’s mother, Delfina White, baked a large sheetcake. Thank you, White Family! Elaine Caldwell added to the desserts with candies donated by Cranberry Sweets and Rite Aid.

After dinner, Elaine Caldwell, assisted by her daughter, Laura Doffing, conducted a game of “Bible” knowledge, which the children and youth anxiously answered. Nick Turner was our knowledge champion. Our catechists, Molly Martin, Julie Lang, Sarah Miller, Lisa Turner, and youth ministry coordinator, Mike Hennick, Sr., commented on their classes and handed out certificates. Fourth grader, Alana Sue Hennick, received a trophy for “perfect Attendance.” Gifts of appreciation for the volunteer chefs and our kitchen helpers were awarded. These parishioners are the reason that our WCN/RE program has been such a success!

Congratulations, Teri Marie Straley! She will be graduating from Oregon State University on Saturday, June 13. Teri was such an active member of our parish. We are proud to have watched her grow up and become an educated young adult.

Confirmation for the South Coast is Sunday, May 24, at 3:00 p.m. at St. Monica’s in Coos Bay. Jackson “Jack” Turner and Pauline Freitag are the candidates for confirmation from Holy Trinity. Please pray for both Jack and Pauline as they are confirmed.

This Wednesday, May 6, is our Cinco de Mayo potluck, which signals the end of this year’s Wednesday Community dinners. If you can make a dish, or help in any way, please call Co-chair, Elaine Caldwell, (541) 347-2587, or Stephanie Arriola, (541) 347-5415.

“The Lord be with your spirit. Grace be with all of you.”
